The Pet Loss Support Group provides a safe, supportive place where pet owners who have lost a beloved animal can share stories about their pet and work through their grief. Groups are led by trained facilitators.

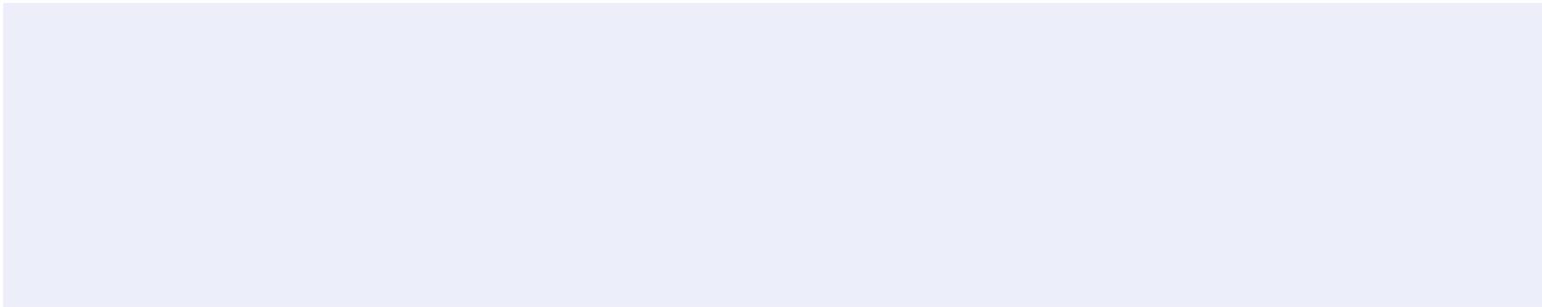

Join Central Cinema for a special 20th anniversary event screening of Twister. Before the show, enjoy a talk from Matt Auflick of the City of Seattle Emergency Management and Ted Beuhner, Warning Coordinator Meteorologist with the National Weather Service. Then, during the film text your disaster related questions to the screen, along with any comments, jokes, or cow noises.

Seattle Parks and Recreation invites Connor the community to learn about the opportunity, and first step in a process, to expand Cove Park through a land swap with King County. This property, 8923 Fauntleroy Way SW, is immediately to the north of Cove Park in West Seattle, which lies just to the north of the Fauntleroy Ferry dock. Seattle Parks and Recreation planner, Chip Nevins, will present the proposed project, answer questions and gather community input about the proposed trade., In 2015 King County Wastewater Treatment Division finished the upgrade to the Barton Pump Station, next to the Fauntleroy Ferry

Terminal, to accommodate West Seattle's growing population. As part of the construction of the new pump station, King County acquired the property just to the north of SW Barton Street, which was used as their temporary construction offices. Now that the project is finished, King County no longer needs the property and is proposing to trade it to the City in exchange for the vacation of the portion of the SW Barton Street right-of-way where the pump station is constructed., Chip Nevins presented this idea to the Fautleroy Community Association in April. - Groups conduct a detailed review of land use changes to implement Mandatory Housing Affordability (MHA)
- • Meetings and conversations are transparent and open to the public
- Participants are encouraged to relay information to their home neighborhoods

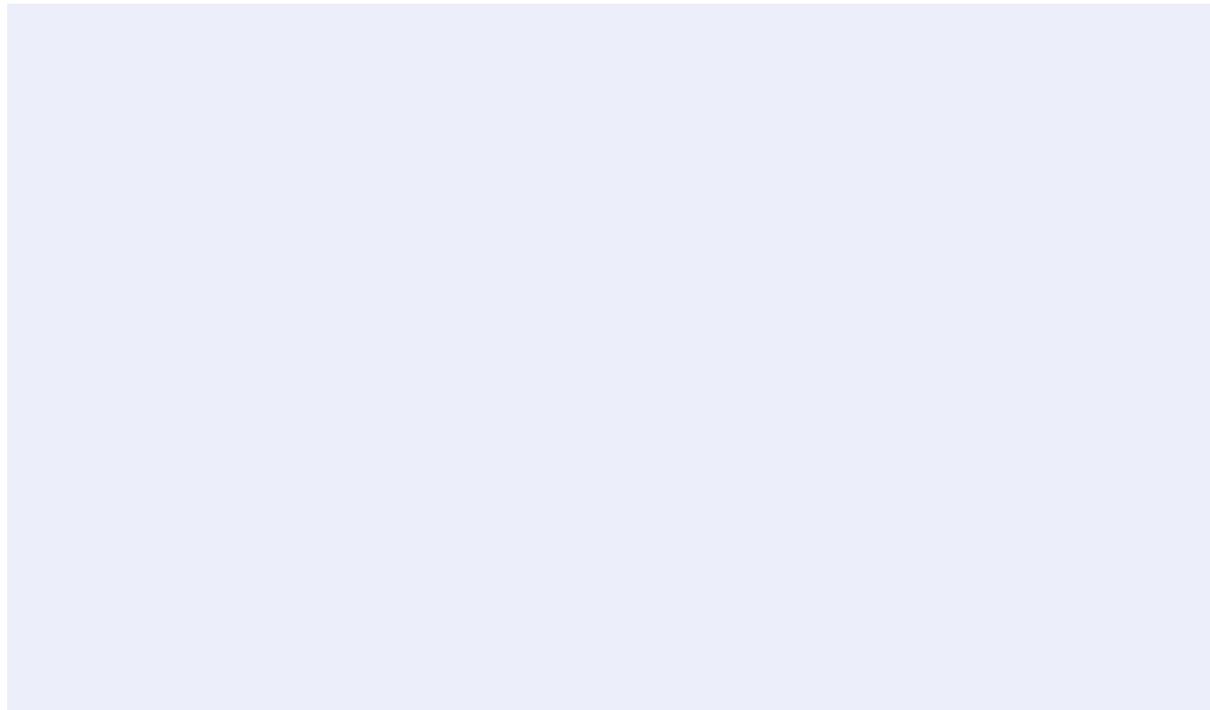

The general public is welcome to attend.

When a large disaster happens, first responders and other city services may be overwhelmed. Transportation may be disrupted and communication may be difficult. It is vital that city residents are prepared to be self-sufficient during these times. Having knowledge of some key disaster skills is a crucial part of that preparedness effort. This workshop provides training on fire extinguisher use and utility control. Both of these are key skills that may be needed after a disaster. Registration is required. both the CAC and SAC for the University of Washington. However both the responsibilities and method for selecting member of the Committee differ from that for other CAC's. The responsibility of CUAC is broader and CUCAC not only participates in the development and monitoring of development under the University's Master Plan but the physical development of greater University area. Members of CUCAC are not selected by the City but are appointed directly by 16 community organizations each of whom is set through an agreement between the City and University.

You are invited to attend the Park District Oversight Committee meeting on Tuesday, March 8, 2016., The Park District Oversight Committee (PDOC) is a community board that provides advice to the Mayor, City Council, and Superintendent of Parks and Recreation, related to the Seattle Park District.

The City University Community Advisory Committee (CUCAC) acts as both the CAC and SAC for the University of Washington. However both the responsibilities and method for selecting member of the Committee differ from that for other CAC's. The responsibility of CUAC is broader and CUCAC not only participates in the development and monitoring of development under the University's Master Plan but the physical development of greater University area. Members of CUCAC are not selected by the City but are appointed directly by 16 community organizations each of whom is set through an agreement between the City and University.
